

The q Undergraduate Association for Linguistics at Michigan State (qUALMS), is pleased to announce the Great Lakes Expo for Experimental and Formal Undergraduate Linguistics (GLEEFUL).

GLEEFUL will be held on April 23, 2011 in East Lansing, Michigan.

Keynote Speaker:

Dr. Tom Roeper
University of Massachusetts, Amherst

GLEEFUL aims to bring together undergraduate linguists from across the country to present high-quality research to their peers, to gain experience and a greater appreciation for the many ways to study linguistics and language-related fields.

We invite 1 page abstracts (500 words) for 15 minute presentations or posters on any area of linguistics.

Abstract submission, and registration, will all be done electronically through our website:
<https://sites.google.com/site/gleeful2011/home> (via the "Submission" link in the left navigation).

Deadline for submission of abstract: February 12, 2011.

Abstracts will be reviewed, and participants will be notified starting on March 5, 2011.

For further information, you can send an email to gleeful.2011@gmail.com, or check out the GLEEFUL website.

Thank you!

Chris Heffner
President, qUALMS

GLEEFUL is thankful for support from the Michigan State Office of the Provost (Undergraduate Education), the College of Arts and Letters, the Department of Linguistics and Germanic, Slavic, Asian and African Languages, and the Cognitive Science Program.
